

36 CHINA TOWN

Note on the Directors

Abbas – Mustan, the duo known to be amongst the most passionate directors in Bollywood, have had a career spanning over a decade. They have given a number of hit films which have rewritten the rules of entertainment in Bollywood. Movies like Aitraaz, Taarzaan – The Wonder Car, Humraaz, Afnanee, Baadshah, Soldier, Daraar, Baazigar, Khiladi, have not only received tremendous success at the box office, but have also earned a great deal of appreciation from film critics.

Their Midas touch lent a new lease of life to “Khiladi” Akshay Kumar elevating him to the status of a substantial actor with skills unparalleled. Experimenting with films has always been a strong point of their direction. Their love for unconventional storylines saw Shah Rukh Khan performing a negative role for the first times as “Baazigar”.

They are also considered the ones who, from the mid-1980s, heralded the era of romantic, suspense-thriller films at a time when romance and tear jerker scripts dominated the silver screen. Each moment of their films is full of entertainment and fun, keeping the audiences engrossed till the end.

The dynamic duo now brings to you 36 China Town. A film like none other, it's all set to change the way people look at entertaining suspense thrillers.

36 CHINA TOWN

Synopsis

Madam Sonia, who owns one of the biggest casinos in China Town, is distraught when her young son suddenly goes missing. She offers a huge reward with the intention of getting her son back. Raj and Priya, two strangers struggling to make a living in a new city, find the child and decide to return him and share the reward. When they finally reach Madam's place late at night, they find her dead. In panic, they run from the palace, but leave their suitcase and footprints behind.

Inspector Karan is given charge of the case... It appears to be a simple case, but with each step forward, matters get even more complicated. He ends up with seven suspects, each with a different motive. And then, what he finds out is a mystery behind another mystery.
